

MESSAGE FROM THE DEAN

If you are considering a graduate degree program, you have already made the most important decision – to invest in yourself. A graduate degree from Pace University's Dyson College of Arts and Sciences will give you the competitive advantage you need to advance your career.

Our professors are widely known in their fields as scholars and practitioners and take an active role in keeping our curriculum current with the needs of today's industry. They bring direct experience into the classroom and use innovation in teaching. You will join a community of scholars and a vast network of contacts in your chosen field including our alumni, who stay well connected.

Our facilities are top-notch, from the state-of-the-art Communications Center, where we have produced award-winning documentaries, and the newly renovated science laboratories where students conduct environmental and biological research, to the Thomas J. McShane Center for Psychological Services, where our PsyD students observe patient care.

Always responsive to the needs of the marketplace, we are proud to have just launched the new Master of Science in Applied Quantitative Economic Analysis and Policy, and our newest doctoral program, the PhD in School Psychology, will launch in fall 2021.

At Dyson, you will find a dynamic graduate school experience that is personally enriching and scholarly as well as grounded in practice. We want to help you achieve your success as defined by you.

Tresmaine R. Grimes, PhD

Dean, Dyson College of Arts and Sciences and School of Education
