

SMALL BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT CENTER

---

The Small Business Development Center (SBDC) was established at Pace University in October of 1986 as an integral part of the Lubin School's economic development programs, and is jointly funded by Pace University, the U.S. Small Business Administration and the Research Foundation of the State University of New York. The Pace SBDC's mission is to provide in-depth and confidential one-to-one business advisement, training and research to help small business owners and aspiring entrepreneurs grow or launch their business venture, all at no cost to our clients. From helping access financing to targeted marketing strategies to identifying contract opportunities and business certifications, our experienced and New York State-certified business advisors have the expertise to help your business reach its full potential. Visit the Pace SBDC to arrange a free session (<https://www.pacesbdc.org/>) with a business advisor and for more information.
