NONPROFIT STUDIES MINOR

The Nonprofit Studies minor equips students with skills (such as grantwriting, fundraising, critical intersectional analysis, feminist leadership, policy design, and more) needed to succeed in careers focused on public need and social good. The nonprofit/social impact sector includes foundations, human services, economic development, advocacy organizations, museums, the arts, education, public health, and environmental organizations. Open to students from all majors and colleges. Contact the Chair of Women's and Gender Studies for updated class choices and further information.
